The Instinctual Brain

The primitive part of the brain that is concerned with our physical systems. During traumatic events (or when memories are triggered) this part of the brain takes over to keep us safe.

The Emotional Brain

Concerned with emotions such as sadness, joy, anger and anxiety. When using this part of the brain we can only think of ourselves and need to defend ourselves. Leads to a fight, flight or freeze response.

The Thinking Brain

Enables us to develop new skills and problem solve. The thinking brain is used when developing relationships and when looking ahead to the future.

Curriculum Policy

Every child admitted to Springwell has been on a unique educational journey. We are committed to returning our students to mainstream school, moving them onto specialist provision, or positively transitioning them to post 16 education, employment or training. Students are therefore with us for varying amounts of time: some individuals will have a very short time on our roll, while others will remain with us until the end of their primary years or year 11.

Because of this, our curriculum offer needs to be flexible, personalised, and designed to allow students to progress to the next stage on their educational journey. It is developmental not chronological: it is based on where a child is in their development, not which year group they are in. For many of our students, their personal development and SEMH needs mean that work in this area has to be prioritised, as a vital first building block in their learning journey. Our curriculum model also recognises the importance of having a strong academic core: for us, this means focusing on literacy, including spoken language, reading and writing, as one of the primary tools through which all other learning is accessed.

We use the idea of building blocks to create our curriculum offer.

- Ensure that all pupils leave with at least two qualifications, no matter when they join us
- Ensure that the majority of our pupils achieve a qualification in English and Mathematics
- Ensure that it is possible for all pupils to achieve five passes at level 2, and that there are other pathways at other levels for pupils for whom this is not appropriate

At Springwell Lincolnshire we believe that working from nurture principles gives our students the best chance of making progress in their learning, both academically and in terms of their social, emotional and behavioural development. The nurture principles that underpin our pedagogy and all curriculum learning are:

1. Children's learning is understood developmentally

2. The classroom offers a safe base

3. The importance of nurture for the development of wellbeing

4. Language is a vital means of communication

5. All behaviour is communication

6. The importance of transition in children's lives

Curriculum Policy

Implementation

In any one classroom in Springwell Lincolnshire we will have children from state-maintained schools and academies, who have experienced very different curriculums before joining us, and who may return or move on to another setting with a different curriculum. We have mixed-age classes of children, many of whom are not working at age-related expectations. It is therefore crucially important that our curriculum is flexible enough to enable us to meet such a wide range of needs.

Building an individualised curriculum for each student:

Each student who enters Springwell Lincolnshire will be assessed and placed on a personalised pathway (see appendix).

We use a range of assessment tools to measure our students' social and emotional progress and development, including the Boxall Profile and the valuing SEND tool.

Impact

The primary measure of the impact of our curriculum will be student attainment. Our assessment policy lays out the detail of how we assess students.

We will further evaluate the impact of our curriculum in the following ways:

A student does not need to tick all the descriptors to fall into a particular pathway.
